BLANK SLATE SERIES RELEASE: #22 Gose of Althea

"Music, in performance, is a type of sculpture. The air in the performance is sculpted into something." -Frank Zappa

Aromatic foam crests the rim of the glass, growing in density from the orbs of flavor-carrying gas racing ferociously to the surface. Swelling from the tap, this beer forces tension to build within you. The crescendo nears as the glass is raised for the first taste. The composition of flavors in your hand, expressed through aroma, temperature, texture, and taste, is a living, artistic expression of our brewers.

The experience of enjoying craft beer is similar to that of seeing live music; fleeting, intense, joyuous, and best experienced with an open mind. The Blank Slate Series allows our brewers to improvise their craft and explore ingredients, styles, or techniques that push the limits of their individual experiences and creativity. Whether these beers are served in our tasting room, or at craft beer retailers in the market, we hope that each release in the Blank Slate Series will evoke your feedback, guiding our consideration we re-releasing batches of Blank Slate Series beers.

As each of these releases is a creative approach to a composition, variations in flavor should be anticipated and embraced. Eventually, like improvised music, some of these releases will fully develop and be worked into an on-going rotation. Wipe the slate clean and look for many more Blank Slate Series releases to come.
