

Patton Valley Rose

Patton Valley Vineyard

United States - Oregon - Willamette Valley

The Patton Valley Vineyard is a wonderful slice of grape growing heaven, right on top of a little outcropping in the foothills of the Oregon Coast Range at an elevation of 300-500 ft. The vineyard has ample sun, cool breezes, and slopes to every aspect with a single soil type called Laurelwood. It's your basic paradise.

There's really nothing like this wine. Every year the subtle nuance is like a siren call. Strawberry patch, kefir lime zest, orange blossom, and tangerine all dance and sing in a crisp chorus of freshness, and wild vibrancy. There's never enough wine in a single bottle to pick out all of the detail, unfortunately, and so we persist.
